OVER 175 YEARS LEADING THE INDUSTRY

When a young man, John Howarth, came from Lancashire with his family to work for his uncle's small but thriving timber business in Leeds in the latter half of the 19th century, the idea that, nearly 200 years later, the firm he joined would not only bear his name but still be owned, managed and controlled by his descendants must surely have never entered his head.

Today, the Howarth Timber Group encompasses a network of timber and builders' merchant branches geographically spread across the country, complemented by dedicated manufacturing divisions supplying class-leading windows and doors and highly specialist timber engineering products and services.

With a continued clear focus, the Howarth Timber Group is proud of its place at the very forefront of its industry.

OUR PEOPLE ARE OUR GREATEST ASSET

Our staff and customers are at the heart of everything we do. Now the UK's largest privately-owned timber company, our origins can be traced back to 1840 when we commenced trading as Hudson & Co. Over the years, the Howarth Timber Group has expanded to employ more than 1,000 talented individuals.

Every member of our team undergoes intensive and ongoing training to ensure that they are kept up-to-date with the latest product and specification information. The company also take its corporate social responsibility seriously and operates a stringent Modern Slavery Act policy.

It is these commitments that ensures our teams are supported and that our customers are provided with best practice knowledge on Howarth's extensive range of products and services, everything from plumbing and heating products, to the latest environmentally focused technologies.

The Howarth Timber Group recognises it has a significant responsibility to ensure its impact on the environment is at all times minimised.

From sourcing timber from certified forests through to recycling at every stage in the production process, the company carefully monitors its environmental performance, whilst continually seeking new ways in which ever more stringent environmental targets can not only be met, but surpassed.

Howarth's businesses are proud supporters of many sustainability and environmentally-focused organisations, such as the Forest Stewardship Council (FSC®), Programme for the Endorsement of Forest Certification schemes (PEFC), Timber Trade Federation Responsible Purchasing Policy (TTF RPP) and Chain of Custody (CoC) schemes. The Company works closely with all its suppliers to encourage greater use of certified timber and timber products and are committed to the WWF Forest Campaign 2020 target of trading in only certified products by 2020.

All our third party supplier products are risk assessed to ensure they meet the government's latest environmental requirements and labelling, such as the EUTR and CE marking. DECKING

A simple, well-designed timber deck can be one of the most cost-effective and practical ways to enhance your living space. Whether you choose a timber deck terrace extending from the conservatory, kitchen or lounge, or a more complex solution, which can open up the entire house to the garden, decking can truly bring the outside inside.

Howarth Timber & Building Supplies has consistently been at the leading edge of the decking market with the choice and variation our range provides. A recent addition, composite decking, has been used in the USA for over 20 years, and we are able to offer the UK a wide selection of products in this alternative area. Composites allow for elaborate designs to be created and, with the inherent qualities of composite, your decking will look great for years to come.

Another recent development is a thermally treated selection of softwoods and hardwood decking products. Widely used on the continent, the uniform colour resulting from the heat treatment process provides a warm golden brown appearance alongside increased structural and durability qualities.
